The word 'world' actually has a variety of meanings. It can refer to the entire universe as the context for all living creatures. It can refer to the way things are in our personal lives. It can refer to a particular place, such as the 'world' of Tom Robbins' fiction. And it can refer to the totality of all the millions of things that make up the universe of every moment that occurs, from the microcosm of atoms to the macrocosm of the universe. It's a hard word to define, though we have to keep in mind that words are always limited and approximate. Also, it depends on how you use the word. If I say "world" when I mean my personal world, 2892ee491b
